

EcoMobility Alliance

Call for Expressions of Interest

ICLEI – Local Governments for Sustainability – along with Kaohsiung (Chinese Taipei) is looking for pioneer cities worldwide that are eager to take on the challenge of becoming cities of EcoMobility excellence.

The EcoMobility Alliance is a select group of ambitious cities that have shown excellence in specific dimensions of sustainable mobility, and that strive to reach similar results in further ecomobility fields. Their goal is to reduce their dependence on fossil fuel-based personal automobiles and to improve the urban quality of life. The vision is that of vibrant cities, where communities and organizations can access goods, services, people and information in an ecofriendly and inclusive manner.

Through a service-oriented structure, Alliance Cities are supported by a Secretariat and a group of Partners from the business, expert, and governmental sectors through their advice, knowledge and technologies. Collective learning exercises, peer-to-peer exchanges, and joint activities help Alliance Cities reach self-set goals.
